THREE CENTS

UNION LABOR RILED

Leaders Hint At One
Great, Grand Fight
With Capital
GONE TOO FAR

Gompers Is Bitter In Denouncing Government
By Injunction

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Inflamed and aroused by the most drastic restraint order ever issued by a court in an industrial dispute, organized labor today projected the menacing shadow of a general strike across the country in answer to what Samuel Gompers bitterly and contemptuously described as "government by injunction."

From being merely a strike of some 400,000 railway shopmen, endangering the transportation system of the country, the issue has now been magnified to the point where it threatens to affect all organized labor and engulf all business and industry, labor leaders privately declared today.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor representing between three and four million workers will meet in the national capital one week from today in what promises to be the most momentous gathering of labor leaders witnessed in years. While the council has not the power to call a general strike itself, it is the governing body of the federation and its advice usually is taken by the rank and file of the federation.

The council will decide whether to "recommend" a general strike to the hundreds of unions that make up the A. F. of L. If the meeting were tomorrow instead of next week, it is probable that a recommendation for an immediate general strike would go forward, so hot is the present temper of the national officers over the Chicago injunction proceedings. Whether these tempers will cool off before next week remains to be seen, but it was apparent today that the Daugherty injunction has solidified the sentiment of all labor leaders behind the striking shopmen.

In the face of this threatening aspect on the part of the federation, came the flat declaration from the white house that the federal government is prepared to go even further than the unprecedented injunction in seeing that transportation is maintained. The administration's next step, if the injunction fails to maintain order and transportation, will be the use of the United States army. This was the only inference that could be drawn from the statements of administration officials.

There is a growing sentiment in the rank and file of union labor for a general strike. It was asserted today by Samuel Gompers. Almost daily since the present industrial trouble started last April with the strike of the United Mine Workers, there has come to American Federation of Labor headquarters, he said, resolutions passed by local unions in varied industries calling for a general strike to check the "deflation of labor."

The long strike of the textile workers in New England, the miners' strike and now the shopcrafts' strike—embracing three greatest divisions of labor in the federation—have all combined, Gompers said, to bring "constant and increasing pressure" on the national officers for a general strike call.

There was nothing else to do in this situation, Gompers said, but to summon the executive council of the federation to meet and discuss what shall be done. This meeting will be held one week from today—two days before the federal court in Chicago considers the matter of making the drastic Daugherty injunction permanent.

HERRIN IS ALIVE WITH DETECTIVES WHILE JURY SITS

Scores Of Indictments
For Massacre Of 22
Men Expected
ACCUSED WATCHED

MARION, Ill., Sept. 2.—The long arm of the law has reached into the mine paths of "bloody Williamson-co" today and was ready to reach those responsible for the Herrin massacre. Following the "leak" from the grand jury room on the indictment of Otis Clark, now arrested and charged with the murder, the United States department of justice has thrown enough secret operatives into the coal region to maintain a front and back door surveillance of those suspected of the killings.

The grand jury may return scores of indictments as the result of the slaying of twenty-two men near Herrin in the rioting of last June, and there will be officers sufficient to see to it that those indicted do not slip thru the net.

"It is foolish for anyone to talk about running away," said attorney-general Edward E. Brundage. "Let them run. There is a government man at the front and back door of every suspected man and he cannot make a move that is not reported."

"There is no place on earth they can move to without our knowledge. This even is going on slowly but surely. Those who are guilty of the massacre cannot hide or dodge the consequence. They are as good as under arrest once the indictment is returned."

The announcement that the national government had taken an active hand in the proceedings came as a shock to the community. It had been expected that special officers would be deputized to make a swift sortie into the mine paths in case wholesale indictments were returned.

Leprosy Specific To Be Improved by New Chemical Ingredients

HONOLULU, Sept. 2.—More startling results in the treatment of leprosy than those thus far obtained by the use of the Deau chaulmoogra oil specific at the Molokai leprosarium are looked for during the coming year.

Dr. Richard Wrenshall of the university of Hawaii, a chemist, has spent several months at various universities in mainland United States working with mercury and arsenic compounds in conjunction with the chaulmoogra oil specific. In his opinion the use of these compounds will greatly increase the effectiveness of the treatments now used, which have resulted in many cures.

GAS COMPANY FACES FIGHT ON NEW RATE

Council 'Determined To Force Show-Down On Proposed Increase
PUBLIC GOUGED

If Increase Is Granted;
Contract And Franchise
End Sept. 5

Chances are that the Coshocton Gas Co. will have to pare down its proposed increase considerably if it hopes to continue to serve Coshocton and other consumers of gas within its franchise territory. It either must do this, or suffer its franchise to go glimmering, and the view of city councilmen is that since its recent deal in which the Doherty interests received control, it is facing an alternative, if it does not wish to provide gas at a reasonable rate, of going out of business. This, however, is considered improbable. The Coshocton Gas Co. will continue to serve Coshocton and West Lafayette, if predictions of councilmen come true, but will not receive the increase it has demanded.

At the special session of city council called last night by Dr. W. R. Davis, president of council, it was learned that the Coshocton Gas Co.'s franchise expires Sept. 5. At the same time its contract of rates expires, which, at first was that to have been expired on Sept. 14. It was also noted that the gas company franchise extended for a number of years.

Councilmen held that its application for increased rate will be considered. (Continued from Page One)

BALLOT BOX IS CARRIED OFF BY FRIDAY'S DELUGE

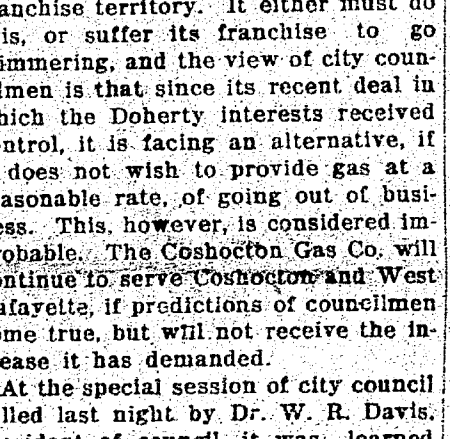

The vote on the proposal to open school at nine o'clock was threatened last night, when the storm picked up the Tribune ballot box and carried it away. It was found lodged under a Ford touring car about 25 feet distant from the voting place. It was picked up and restored to its former place at the northwest corner of Main and Sixth-sts. Several ballots were ruined by the water.

Advocates of the nine o'clock beginning hour for school came in strong with their ballots yesterday, and boosted their total back up to apparently a safe lead. The vote last night stood 145 for the 9 o'clock hour and 29 for continuing as last year, beginning school at 8:30.

As today's voting will be the last, a greater interest is expected to be taken in this question, which will affect every household where there are children of school age. The ballot box will be left at the northwest corner of Main and Sixth-sts until nine o'clock tonight, or votes may be cast up until that time at the Tribune office, where ballots may be had free, or they can be clipped from the paper. The votes will then be tabulated and turned over to the clerk of the school board.

A move on the part of those who favor the early hour could still overthrow the vote for the 9 o'clock advocates, who so far have maintained a lead. It is believed that many parents who have an interest in the hour of beginning school have failed to vote because they felt the 9 o'clock hour would be carried without their aid. The voting today will determine the question. While the sentiment seems strong for the later hour—even more than the 5 to 1 ratio expressed by the votes—the decision will be made according to votes cast. The votes cast thus far are fairly representative, coming from all parts of the city and from people of varied occupations. Any adult resident of Coshocton may vote until 9 o'clock tonight.

Millionaire Disinherits Five Children

Park Benjamin.

Cutting off with $1 each of his five children, whom he referred to as "parasites," the will of Park Benjamin, New York millionaire patent lawyer, naval expert and unwilling father-in-law of the late Enrico Caruso, has been filed. The will charges as a reason for disinheriting Park Benjamin, Jr., Romeyn Park Benjamin, Dorothy Caruso, Mrs. Fred W. Goddard and Mrs. William Glenny that they had been guilty of "long continued unprofitable and unfaithful conduct toward me."

He left most of his estate to an adopted daughter, Anna Bolchi Benjamin, former governess and companion of Mrs. Caruso.

SHAW AND SPECKMAN ENTERTAIN FRIENDS AT HOME IN COUNTRY

Newton, Speckman and L. C. Shaw were hosts yesterday to a party of their friends from this city and various parts of the county at their farm six miles north of the city on the Warsaw road.

An old-fashioned country dinner was served on the lawn at noon to the following: J. C. Wright, I. F. Leach, H. B. Pigman, Dr. M. C. Criswell, William Wallace, A. C. McDonald, I. D. Webber, W. R. Rehard, O. B. Clifton, Frank Whittemore, Edward Whittemore, C. H. Ross, W. L. Craig, and Fred S. Wallace. Messrs. Craig and Pigman assisted the hosts in preparing, and serving the dinner which consisted of baked ham, fried eggs, baked Irish and sweet potatoes, roasting ears and various other vegetables and fruits, the products of the Shaw and Speckman farm, while numerous desserts, such as home baked apple, lemon and peach pie, watermelon, ice cream and cake completed a dinner such as is no longer seen outside the farming districts.

O. B. Clifton and I. D. Webber easily carried off the honors at the dinner table, while John Wright and A. C. McDonald claimed the horseshoe pitching championship. Dr. Criswell and Mr. Pigman disputed the latter claim however, contending that there were no shoe tossers present with sufficient reputation to interest them. The finals in the athletic contests were interfered with by the rain and will have to be played off at a later date.

The dinners served by Messrs. Shaw and Speckman have become justly famous. Several times a year they invite parties to their country home and overwhelm them with old-fashioned hospitality. It is their invariable custom to do the cooking themselves and practically everything they serve is the product of their own farm.

ROADS BADLY FIXED

CUMMINS SPEAKS

Administration Bill Is Pushed In Senate For
I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—An emphatic warning that railroad rolling stock is already in such "bad order" that even if the steammen's strike were ended now it probably would be six months before transportation could be resumed at its "highest peak" was voiced today by Senator Cummins, chairman of the interstate commerce committee of the senate.

Senator Cummins agreed that "the fact that at least 20 per cent of the railroad equipment essential to adequate transportation has deteriorated since the strike started," is an additional reason for the immediate enactment of the administration bill to give the interstate commerce commission blanket power to move coal and curb profiteering.

Altho the proposed legislation continued to encounter stiff opposition from certain senators, Cummins expressed the belief that the differences between the bill as passed by the house and as reported from his committee would soon be "composed" and its passage by the senate by tonight secured.

Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, in attacking the bill declared that the "trouble with the situation was not that the interstate commerce commission was without ample power to meet the coal crisis, but that it was misusing the power it already possessed."

Republican leaders in charge of the bill contended the contention of Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, that it was intended "not so much to authorize the interstate commerce commission to issue additional priority orders as to cloak it with authority to employ such orders in such a way as would regulate coal prices and prevent profiteering by both operators and dealers."

It was denied, however, by them that it was a "price fixing" bill as charged by some of its opponents. Cummins argued that it would be absolutely necessary for at least several months to allow the government the "broadest latitude" in its effort to insure adequate movement of coal, food and other necessities of life, and he insisted that the interstate commerce commission "should be accorded every facility to deal with the coal and railroad situation in every practicable way."

Opposition was also directed toward the federal fuel distribution agency the bill would create to co-operate with the interstate commerce commission, but the necessity for such an agency was also earnestly urged by Senator Kellogg, of Minnesota, and other administration spokesmen.

SMITH WILL ASK SANDLES TO GIVE STATE HIS PROOF

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 2.—Secretary of State Smith today announced he would request A. P. Sandles, secretary of the Uniform Tax League, who protested the placing of proposed tax and debt limitation amendments to the constitution on the November ballots, to prove charges contained in the protest that petitions filed by the proponents of the proposed amendments contained pencil signatures, that addresses were missing, and that a number of signatures repeated their signatures.

Secretary of State Smith said that he would decide on the other charges contained in the Uniform Tax League protest. State officials here declare that court decisions have ruled that signatures made with indelible lead pencils are legal, classifying such pencils as "condensed ink."

Black lead pencil signatures, however, are declared illegal on such petitions. A hearing will be held next week, according to Secretary of State, if requested.

DOTTY peeped through the iron bars at the queer-looking snout sticking out of the little puddle of water.

"Well, you certainly have a strange-looking nose," she laughed out loud. "I wish you'd come out so I could get a look at you."

"Whom do you mean—Mrs. Tapir?" asked a merry voice.

DOTTY turned around to find Squeedee, the little elfin from Joyland, standing beside her.

"Oh, Squeedee!" DOTTY cried. "I'm so glad to see you. What did you say her name was? I wish she'd come out, don't you?"

Squeedee smiled and whisked softly, and the snout raised in the water, and the strange-looking creature lazily raised out of the water, crawled upon the bank, and came toward Squeedee and DOTTY.

"Hello, there, Mrs. Tapir," Mrs. Tapir said, politely bowing to DOTTY and the elfin. "But why in the world did you wake me up now?"

HUNT FOR HEIR TO 2 MILLION IS REWARDED

SCAR ON NECK MARKED HIM

Amateur Detective Gets $5,000 for Locating Missing Man in Far-Away Land

(By International News Service) POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Sept. 2.—After a world-wide search for William Sample, heir to a fortune estimated at $2,500,000, lasting for four months, the new millionaire was found on a steamship in the harbor of Bangkok, Siam, ready to sail to America for a visit to his home in southeast Missouri.

George Pind, of Cape Girardeau, has been conducting the search in order that he might turn over the vast fortune to its owner. The fortune was left to Sample by relatives who recently died.

As the news of the search for Sample found its way to every nook and corner of the globe, hundreds of "William Samples" applied to Pind for the money. When they would arrive at Cape Girardeau and find Pind. The latter would make them turn around, and he would look at the back of their necks before making any statement.

Pind stated, after the rightful owner of the fortune was located, that the rightful heir had a scar on the back of his neck and that this mark would be the deciding factor in ascertaining the one William Sample for whom he was searching.

When he was found, Sample said he had been in Siam for a number of years and did not know of the search being conducted for him. He appeared to be greatly pleased with the news of his newly acquired millions and could hardly wait until his boat left for America. He was found by an amateur detective who had been assigned to assist in locating Sample. The detective, according to Pind, was paid $5,000 for his successful search.

A greater part of the legacy acquired by Sample is in a diamond mine in South Africa, it is claimed.

But now the complaining citizens of the village have been told these differences have been patched up, and it is likely that another three months at the most will see the house standing on its intended lot. The Mayor of St. Bernard explained that official action in the matter would have been fraught with difficulty, as the Safety Director of the former administration issued a permit to move the house, but neglected to specify a time limit.

BEADED DRESSES FOR THE FALL

The Bead-Trimming Fad Is Increasing in Favor

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

PARIS is showing beaded dresses in all fall openings, which means that they will make one of the high points in fashions during the coming winter season.

Shimmering beaded frocks will be seen at most smart evening affairs, some of these dresses entirely bead-covered, and some showing their backgrounds of crepe or satin. Others use bead designs simply as a border or trimming treatment.

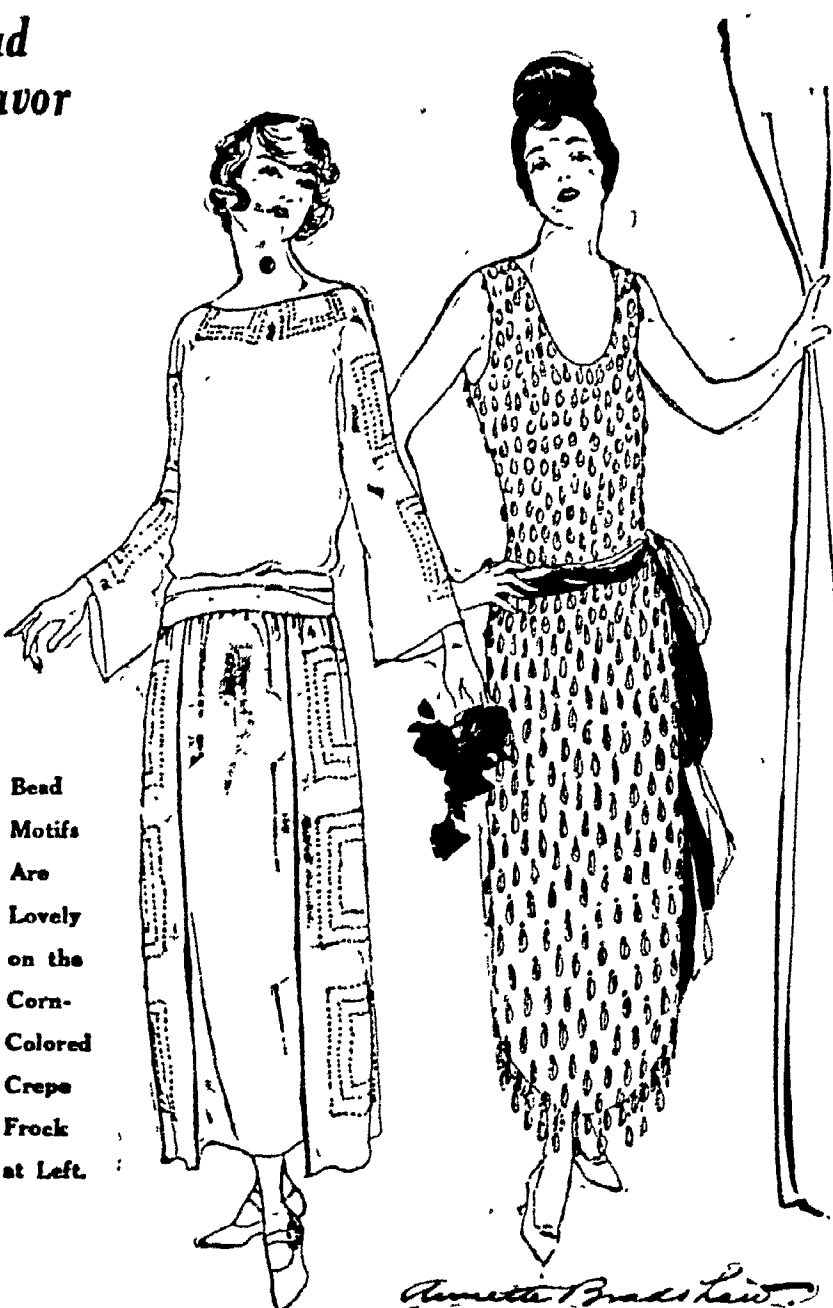

Afternoon dresses show bead designs more sparingly applied than on the thickly-studded affairs for evening.

Note the corn-colored crepe shown here at the left. Its effectiveness is heightened by the tasteful bead motif which outlines the straight-across neck and runs through the sleeves and side panels. The original of this frock is worn by a graceful young actress in one of the new musical comedies.

For evening, the simple lines of the yellow beaded frock at the right are charming. Its whole surface is covered with loops of tiny beads, which is most effective on the background that follows closely the lines of the figure. From the curved line of the skirt, drop strings of beads which show tiny loops.

Yellow and blue chiffon combine in the slim streamers which loop about the waist and tie at the side.

Bead Motifs Are Lovely on the Corn-Colored Crepe Frock at Left.

Scores of Yellow Beads in Loops Cover the Evening Frock at Right.

What Science Says About Curing Rickets with Sunlight

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City

NOT long ago the newspapers announced some remarkable experiments made by New York physicians to discover a means of curing rickets. This is a deficiency disease preventing the building of bone tissue. It has been successfully overcome by feeding cod-liver oil to the afflicted children. The oil furnished what the body lacked.

It has been held that the effect of the cod-liver oil is to supply essential "vitamines." We don't know exactly what vitamins are, but this name has been applied to the mysterious contents of food stuffs, contents which produce growth and vigor.

Speaking of the New York experiments, the newspapers said that the frequent exposure of the skin of a child to the direct rays of the sun cured rickets without any change of diet.

In other words, sunlight does exactly what cod-liver oil has done. Some chemical change takes place as a result of exposure to the sun which accomplishes the same result. This effect may be due to the stimulation of existing vitamins. It may be due to other causes. In any event, bone-building is resumed.

Dr. Alfred F. Hess was quoted as saying it would take fifty thousand dollars' worth of cod-liver oil to cure all the cases of rickets in New York city. But these sunlight experiments, if they are substantiated, make it unnecessary to spend money for good health, which God's sunlight can give free.

It is remarkable what recuperative and disinfecting powers reside in sunlight. Almost any deadly germ will die after a few hours exposure to sunlight. There can be no doubt that many diseases are benefited by sunlight and fresh air.

Our grandmothers "sunned" the bedding and the milk-pans. They recognized the importance of Nature's disinfectant. Now science is attempting to analyze and apply in an accurate way what we have learned already by the rule of thumb.

I hope the experiments will prove to be as valuable to humanity as first reports indicate.

Answers to Health Questions

A. P. Q.—Will the violet ray remove scars?

A.—The violet ray is not used for this purpose. X-ray, radium or the electric needle is used.

A. J. R. Q.—There are three of us in the same neighborhood suffering from an itching sensation on our arms, wrists and legs. Could this be caused by eating berries?

A.—This condition is very likely due to some food poisoning. If you eat a lot of berries they are probably the cause.

MRS. F. S. Q.—What causes a pain in my right side? Sometimes after eating I feel nauseated, and this is followed by the pain.

A.—Your trouble may be appendicitis, although you do not give sufficient information for me to be of help to you. Therefore, I would advise you to go to a doctor for an examination and treatment.

W. C. W. Q.—After retiring at night I usually take me about five minutes to fall asleep, but before doing so I hear a strange sound in my head as if something snapped. Kindly tell me what causes this.

A.—I do not believe you have any cause to worry, as the sound is in all probability a nervous sensation.

MRS. D. G. Q.—My baby, who is 8 months old, is teething, and she has had convulsions. Will this affect the child's mental or physical condition?

A.—Convulsions often occur in children who are teething. It will not affect her future condition. However, you should call the doctor if these attacks are prolonged.

T. M. M. Q.—Can tattoo marks be removed from the body?

A.—If not too large or too deep, tattoo marks can sometimes be removed. Consult a skin specialist and be governed by his advice.

M. R. Q.—I have been troubled with nervous palpitation of the heart for some time, and would like to know whether this can develop into something more serious.

A.—If you think you have heart trouble of any kind, go to your doctor or to one of the heart clinics and be examined and advised.

WAITING. Q.—Will you kindly give me a remedy for excessive perspiration?

A.—Perspiration is nature's way of ridding the body of waste material. It is not advisable to interfere with the functioning of the skin.

A READER. Q.—About a year ago I was operated upon for appendicitis. Since that time I have had a gnawing pain in my right side. Will you kindly advise me what to do?

A.—This pain may be due to adhesion. Consult your physician for an examination, and be governed by his advice.

How You May Make Your Neck Stronger and More Beautiful

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

A STRONG and lovely neck seems to be more and more the definite beauty objective toward which many women are working.

There are perhaps other parts of her body about which the average woman thinks first. The face, of course, is of primary importance. And the woman who guards her beauty carefully thinks of her figure and watches it as studiously as she watches for any marring blackhead or pimple upon her rose-like complexion.

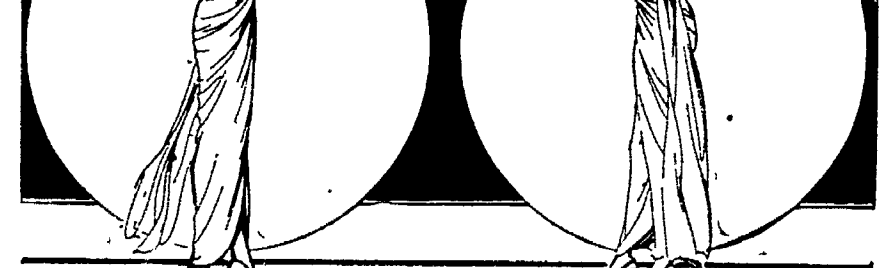

Then, too, every thinking woman is very, very careful about the appearance of her hands. From time immemorial, hands have been considered an important factor in summing up one's character.

certainly is more becoming than the tight choker collars of a few years ago.

This fact was recently commented on in a well-known fashion magazine. The article spoke of a "dress reformer" who was of the opinion that there should be a law regulating women's dressing, and restricting them to long sleeves, high collars and fabrics which are not transparent.

"His tirade seems ill-timed," the article comments. "For just now skirts are longer than they have been in several years, many sleeves are long, necklines could hardly be more modest, and transparent blouses are not so modish as less sheer ones."

It is true that the modern woman's neck is exposed little below the collar.

After Doing This a Few Times You Discover the Proper Degree of Pressure.

acter, and they are obviously of the utmost importance in their bearing on a woman's beauty.

We hear of the famous Madame de Staël, who used to toy with rose petals while she talked, that she might call attention to the beauty of her hands, which were her best feature.

True, we do not hear so much of the beautifying of the neck, but still we know that those women of olden times could not have been unkind of the power of a beautiful, strong, white throat. They were far too well versed in the lore of charm for that! Perhaps their throats kept strong and lovely without extra care.

We know that in the costumes they wore their necks showed as much or more than do those of the women of today. Madame de Staël's Empire gowns were low-cut at the throat, a style more becoming than the straight-across neckline of today. This modish neckline, which seems to have come to stay, is modest and conservative in cut, and bone, but the modern woman strives for perfection, and she wants her neck to be as strong and beautiful as possible.

If you are with her in this respect, here is an exercise which will help you attain your ideal:

It is better to stand erect, as the proper position does much to help you put force into the exercise and gain more from it. Be sure that your shoulders are straight and your chest well out.

Now, bow your head, drawing your chin well in to your body. Clasp your hands, palms down, at the back of your neck.

Pull your head slowly back until you are looking up, at the same time pressing down with your hands on the back of your neck.

Now, reverse your head and repeat. Do this exercise ten or fifteen times before going to bed at night. It should fill out the hollows of your neck and give it that strong, well-moulded appearance which makes for beauty.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adelle Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Mental Relief Madge's Father Gave Her.

MY father gave quick approval to

Allen Drake's proposal that I stand in the hall instead of the library for the purpose of keeping track of Katie.

"That will be much better," he said decidedly. "And, Daughter, dear, you would better take your station here at once. The lights must go out in this room in another minute, and you don't want to be stumbling over chairs. But there is no reason why you cannot sit down until you hear Katie. You can easily rise from this without making any noise. Not so, Allen?"

With an approving nod Mr. Drake left the room, and my father lifted a small antique chair from the corner, carried it to a spot just clear of the door between the library alcove and the side hall, and set it down.

"There! That's far better!" he commented. "Let me help you with that."

He had seen that I was having rather a sad time in winding the dark motor vell around my head, and with fingers

deft as a milliner's, he took it from me and wound it around my head and face until only my eyes were visible.

"You have dark gloves?" he asked, and I silently held up a pair with which I had provided myself.

"Put them on," he said, "and seat yourself here. I will turn this light off now and move with the aid of my pocket flash. Ready?"

"Yes," I whispered, for the bizarre preparations, the prospect of sitting in total darkness waiting for something evil to come into the house made me instinctively hush my voice.

A Poignant Fear.

"Very well." My father's calm voice held no hint that he had divined my feeling as he turned out the light, then made his way across the big room with his pocket light illuminating his path.

Close to me, he shut it off and stood silently for a moment, then spoke reverendly.

"I cannot see you at all," he said. "I think we'd better adjourn to the veranda. It won't be very long now until the party begins."

Afterward, I checked the time and found that the minutes I sat motionless in the darkness were but ten, but they seemed a hundred times that number before I heard stealthy footsteps in the front hall, and Katie's sibilant whisper.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Every One of Us

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

WOMEN here in America are sending their husbands to bankruptcy and to jail by their craving for fine clothes and amusement."

That's what a well-known and highly-respected judge on the New York bench declares.

I wonder if what he says is true.

I'm afraid he knows a little too much about the facts of life—this man with the discouraged view of women and their influence upon the world.

Also I'm afraid he knows too little about those facts—too.

Did you ever spend a morning in the waiting-room of a heart specialist? I did, one day last week. And, before noon came I found myself thinking that almost everybody has heart disease and wondered how the world was going to go on with so many leaky valves in it.

The next day something took me to the office of an eye specialist, and it wasn't half-past eleven in the forenoon before I found myself wondering what on earth was putting the light of sight out of the eyes of so many people.

No man who sits on the bench and hears divorce cases and breach of promise suits and lawsuits over property, can have the right idea about men or about women either.

Everyone that judge sees during his whole day of business is either lame, halt or blind—spiritually.

The Healthy Foundation

He listens to the woman who testifies that her husband spends all his money away from home and begrudges her a nickel, even for food.

He hears the tale of the man who has married a selfish, cold-hearted, intriguing little adventuress.

He harkens to the story of the forsaken wife and the deceived husband from morning till night. I wonder how a man in such a position can keep from going crazy.

Divorce—desertion—cruelty—extravagance—deceit—these things are in the world. We know that. We hear about them every day—but, we don't hear of the thousands and hundreds of thousands of good women and devoted men.

Nobody gets out an extra to tell the world that Mr. and Mrs. John Smith are still happy, and no one runs around the neighborhood with the news that the Browns have some lovely new furniture and a pair of beautiful portieres.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

The Authority on Home Cooking

Warm Single-Dish Dinners for Cooler Days.

EARLY September days are too warm for elaborate cooking, but a single hot dish is tempting after the fruit cocktail with a salad and a fruit dessert.

This makes an easy dinner to prepare and there are many things to do at the end of each day in a pleasant preserving, getting the children ready for school, and putting the house in order that one is glad to avoid the necessity for heavy cooking. The following suggestions may be helpful as reminders of good hot dishes:

Salmon Shortcake.

Open drain remove skin and bone and take one large of egg in of the best salmon. Make a rich cream sauce and flavor it with lemon juice. Add the salmon and mix well. Bake in a shallow pan at 350° for 15 minutes.

Make a shortcake of flour, sugar, salt, and butter. Bake in a shallow pan at 350° for 15 minutes. Spread the cream sauce on the upper half and spread it with the remainder of the cream sauce. Bake for 15 minutes at 350°. Garnish the shortcake with alices of lemon and with a little chopped parsley. Serve with the top with hard-boiled egg slices. Serve hot.

Save a little extra sauce to serve with each helping.

English Beefsteak Pie.

Cover the inside of round steak a half-inch thick, cut into squares, with boiling water, a dash of salt, and a large potato sliced in medium and alices. Cook until the meat is tender, then season with salt, pepper, a teaspoonful of sugar, a tablespoonful of powder, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, and a dash of lemon juice. Add chives. Have a buttery casserole ready and put the meat into it, then thicken

the gravy with butter and flour rubbed to a paste. Pour the gravy over the meat and potatoes. Bake in a casserole made of baking powder, a half-teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonsful of lard and one of butter, and a half-cupful of milk. Mix the crust to make a soft dough, roll it out an inch thick and place it on top of the meat and gravy. Bake the pie in a hot oven until the crust is done.

Chicken Omelette.

Poil a good, fresh, plump chicken, putting it on in cold water with an onion stuck with four cloves, a bay leaf and a few stalks of celery for flavoring. When done, remove the chicken from the boiler, save the white breast meat for a salad and dice the rest. Throw all the bones back season and cook down the broth to half, then strain it into a bowl to cool. Take a cupful of the broth and the same of rich milk and make a cream sauce. Then add the diced chicken to it

Make a strong omelette in the usual way, and when ready to fold it spread it with the chicken mixture and fold it then lightly brown the omelette under the gas boiler, which will take only a minute or two. Garnish with parsley and teaspoonful of currant jelly. Serve hot.

Oyster Fritters.

Train as many oysters as will be needed to show six to a fritter and dry them on a linen towel. Prepare a rich cream sauce, well flavored. Make a good crust not too rich and short, and cut it in six-inch squares. Fill each square with the oyster and sauce mixture and fold it over in a triangle shape, pinning the edges to hold in the gravy

and pinning the top two or three times

Place the fritter on a buttered baking-pan and bake until the crust is done.

Serve hot, garnished with parsley.

All One Family

Perhaps people are no longer content to bear the burden of hopeless unhappiness. Maybe John Jones doesn't stand as much extravagance and idle selfishness from Mary Jones as his father did, and perhaps Margaret Brown, who divorces her husband, is a good deal happier than Margaret's mother who had exactly the same kind of a husband—and didn't divorce him.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Commenting on the three day suspension of Babe Ruth for his recent altercation with Umpire Connolly in which the home run hitter is said to have made remarks that were "outrageous," Miller Huggins manager of the New York Yankees said today: "We have tried to show Ruth the foolishness of talking back to the umpires but he won't listen. ## Sport Chatter

The Giants are coming back. They came a step nearer the field in dropping their third straight to the Dodgers, 5 to 7, in the tenth inning. The champs, however, are still five games in front with the wire in sight.

Ehmke was good and bad in spots and the Browns got to him for enough runs in the fourth and eighth innings to head the Tigers 4 to one. Shocker shocked 'em as usual.

The rebellious Reb Russel went on another hitting rampage during the course of a doubleheader in which the Cardinals and Pirates divided the spoils. He smote two home runs in the first game, won by the Pirates, 14 to 4, and a third in the second game, which went to the Cards by 11 to 6 score.

The Indians slid back into the second division in absorbing a 2 to nothing defeat at the hands of Robertson and the White Sox in a foreshortened game. Robertson drove in both Chicago runs.

Winning their second straight doubleheader from the Phillies, 2 to nothing and 10 to 1, the Braves pulled themselves up on their boot straps to within three points of seventh place.

Galloway's homer with two out in the ninth tied the score and Mitchell's wild throw in the 11th gave the Athletics a 4 to 3 decision over the Red Sox.

The Cubs strengthened their hold on second place by beating the Reds, 7 to 4, opportune hitting and errors by Fonzeca and Pinelli being more or less instrumental.

Buffalo Meat May Be Sold in U. S. Markets

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 2.—One thousand and fifty head of the Canadian Government's park at Wainwright, which are considered unnecessary to further development of the herd, may be slaughtered and their meat sold in the market of the United States and Canada, according to present plans of the Department of Parks. Buffalo meat, especially the hump, was formerly considered a great delicacy by the pioneers. When the last census was taken of the herd it numbered 6, 145 head, the largest in the world. The nucleus of the herd numbering 700, was originally obtained from Michael Pablo, a half-breed Indian of Montana, thirteen years ago, and has multiplied more than eight times since then.

MASONS HIT IT UP WHEN JAZZ IS PLAYED

Syncopated Records Make Them Work Like Animated Cartoon, Experiment Discloses

(By International News Service)
 QUITMAN, Miss., Sept. 2.—Bricklayers work like fiends when jazz music from a phonograph is played, it was shown in a test made here by A. B. Morse, general manager of the Long-Bell plant.

Mortar mixers also are more productive of work in the summer, when they can take turns sitting under electric fans, another test by Morse proves.

The phonograph was installed at the plant, being rebuilt after a fire, to relieve the monotony experienced by men working at night. All the records, about forty, were of jazz, and a boy was employed with no other duty than to keep the machine running all night.

When Morse made inventory he discovered that 15,000 more bricks had been laid over the number laid in a similar period when there was no phonograph jazz.

More than that, the night men did more work than those of the day shift.

Installation of electric fans followed several heat prostrations among mortar mixtures. The motors were installed in a shed nearby and two shifts of men put on the job, one taking a turn at working, the other at being fanned.

Work of rebuilding the plant was completed in twenty days.

AMERICA'S TITLE TO TENNIS SUPREMACY STANDS UNDISPUTED

By DAVID J. WALSH.
 FOREST HILLS, L. I., Sept. 2.—The Davis Cup remains in America for another year. That is virtually ordained. The Americans need only one victory in three matches, scheduled for today and Monday to retain possession of the trophy. This means that Australia must win all three matches and the possibility is as remote as the crest of Mount Everest.

Just how long the cup will remain in this country is not easy to say. Off hand, the writer would say indefinitely. Tilden and Johnston are the two greatest players in the world, bar none. When they are thru Vincent Richards and a dozen young Americans, now in the course of tennis evolution, will come on to carry the banner.

The tennis resources of America are unlimited. Added to its superiority in position is the fact that it takes up all competitive sport in a systematic way and its series of boys' teams throughout the land is laying the foundation for its tennis future.

The Australians will make what is probably their last stand today in losing Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood against Bill Tilden and Vincent Richards. The match should be interesting, merely that.

The same teams met for the national title in Boston no later than last week and since the Americans won handsily then, there seems to be no occasion to become unduly enthusiastic about the Australians' chance.

Belasco, the Palmist, remains until Monday evening. Consult him now.

LONGWORTH MAY BE LEADER OF NEXT HOUSE

Ohioans, Already Pre-dominant, May Acquire New Prestige in G. O. P. Ranks

ANDERSON UP ALSO

Minnesotan Considered Agricultural Representative; to Get Farmer Support

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
 WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Unless the fickle voter decrees otherwise in November, it is entirely probable that the sovereign State of Ohio, already possessed of the presidency and a host of other political honors, will add to its imposing array of Federal positions by taking over the Republican leadership of the next House of Representatives.

"Nick" Longworth, of Cincinnati, veteran of nearly twenty years of service in Congress, is the man. The voters can spoil plans now in the making by turning control of Congress over to the Democrats in November, or by refusing to send the husband of Alice Roosevelt back to Washington. Both of these contingencies are considered remote.

OLD LEADERS GOING.
 The leaders of the present Congress are gone—or going. With the exception of Speaker Gillett, of Massachusetts, most of the other principal leaders of the Sixty-seventh Congress will be missing when the roll for the Sixty-eighth is called.

Mondel, of Wyoming, is running for the Senate; Fordney, of Michigan, is retiring of his own volition; Campbell, of Kansas, was licked in the primaries; Fess, of Ohio, is running for the Senate; Walsh, of Massachusetts, has taken a judgeship; "Uncle Joe" Cannon, of Illinois, is voluntarily retiring after nearly half a century of intimate contact with the House. Others are likely to go in the primaries or in the Autumn.

The elimination of these elders has brought the question of Republican leadership in the Sixty-eighth Congress sharply to the fore.

Longworth apparently stands in the direct line of succession, although he won't be elected without a fight. Sidney Anderson, of Minnesota, arrived at the point of consideration at about the same time.

Both Anderson and Longworth are lawyers, as are 75 per cent of the members of Congress. The tall Minnesotan, however, is looked upon as an agricultural representative. He was chairman of the joint committee which conducted a far-reaching investigation into agricultural conditions, and he has been a leader in the Agricultural Bloc.

Anderson is one of the younger men in the House. He will celebrate his fortieth birthday on September 17, and he is now in his twelfth year in the House, which means that he came down to Washington at the tender age of twenty-eight.

The agricultural element in the House, embracing mid-West and far-West representatives, will make a strenuous effort to have the lanky Minnesotan the leader of the next House. It is considered doubtful, however, if he can master the votes to put him across.

"Nick" Longworth has eighteen years of Congress behind him. He is fifty-two years old and has been in Congress continually since the Fifty-eighth except for two years. He lost out in the Democratic sweep that carried Woodrow Wilson into the Presidency in 1912, but two years later he came back again and has been in Washington ever since.

Longworth has been one of the small band of men that directed the destinies of the present House. He is a member of the powerful Ways and Means Committee.

It is said of Longworth that there is no more able parliamentarian or legislative strategist in Congress. To these abilities he adds an acquaintanceship that few men in Congress possess.

The industrial East is expected to combat the agricultural West for the leadership of the next House.

Belasco, the Palmist, remains until Monday evening. Consult him now.

POLICEMAN RIGHT IN REFUSING TO HELP DRY SLEUTH

CINCINNATI, Sept. 2.—William Copelan, chief of police, said today that a Cincinnati policeman who refused to aid prohibition enforcement officers working out of the village of Loveland in making an arrest was within his rights and had the sanction of the local police department.

The policeman was appealed to by the dry agents and not only refused to assist them, but said he would put them under arrest if they used violence in taking a suspected bootlegger.

"We do not propose to lend ourselves to the private enterprise of any court," chief Copelan said after declaring that the police would aid outside officers in making local arrests providing the cases were brot to trial in Cincinnati courts.

Belasco, the Palmist, remains until Monday evening. Consult him now.

STRIKERS DECLARE INJUNCTION MEANS LITTLE ULTIMATELY

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—"We will resist to the end," today declared officers of the legions of railway men named in yesterday's federal injunction. The fight will go on, leaders stated, in spite of the court order secured upon petition of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty in federal court which, temporarily at least, restrains the strikers with their leaders, from picketing railroad property, from seeking to secure recruits to their ranks, and from issuing any strike propaganda, either in meetings or thru the press.

Today the entire attention of the strike leaders was focused on the injunction and everyone of its many provisions, so far reaching and sweeping as to almost deny the strikers the rights to "draw their breath" as one official put it, were being carefully dissected and scanned by counsel.

The executive council, in a statement said that enforcement of the injunction, insofar as it applies to lawlessness and violence in connection with the strike, will be aided by every power in the shopcrafts' organization.

"It is unfortunate" the statement declared, "however, in a suit for the announced purpose of preventing lawlessness the attorney general's office has prepared and the court, on hasty consideration has entered an order, which unless carefully interpreted might read as a flagrant violation of the constitutional rights of American citizens as repeatedly affirmed by the supreme court of the United States."

The executive council of the shopcrafts holds practically that their greatest weapon—picketing—cannot be assumed to come within the provision of the injunction issued by Judge Wilkerson. "Peaceful picketing," it was pointed out, has time and again been held as lawful by the supreme court of the United States.

"We assume the right to continue a lawful strike in a lawful manner until a satisfactory settlement is made," is the shopmen's attitude. "And until advised that the constitution and the supreme court decisions are no longer to be relied upon as the law of the land," the railway shopcrafts declare they will continue to perform their "legitimate duties to their members."

GAS COMPANY

ered illegal unless it first applies to council for a renewal of its franchise and its rate contract. The city, it was explained by Dr. Davis today, will possess the gas mains after Sept. 5, and unless the company makes a satisfactory deal on rates thru the city council, the mains will revert to the city after that date and council may, in its discretion, refuse to permit the Coshocton Gas Co. to supply gas to the city. If, however, a proposition is submitted which meets the approval of the city council, and if it is acted upon favorably, the franchise will be renewed and the rate contract extended in accordance with whatever the city council considers a just and fair rate.

Council is not "bucking" altogether an increase in rates. Its members feel that Coshocton has been fortunate in receiving a low gas rate as long as it has, and that a slight increase will not be objected to. But since the new rate nearly doubles the present one to small consumers and since the gas company acted without consulting members of city council—apparently to shove the increase thru without giving the city body a chance to judge its fairness or unfairness—council members are disposed to fight the increase. And from the information they obtained from city Solicitor J. C. Daugherty last night, they hold the superior hand. With the expiration of the franchise and contract Sept. 5, the gas company, as council considers it, is up against a stone wall. It will do no good for them to apply for an increase without consent of city council may revoke their license to serve the city.

One member of council took the opportunity to explain the surcharge of the gas company today, which he described as a method of gouging the public.

He showed that under the 42-cent surcharge, the gas company receives from Coshocton consumers about $1,600 per month but $12,000 per year, which is supposed to cover charges for reading meters, cost of overhead, superintendent's salary, cost of cards and printing for gas charges, and miscellaneous expenditures of the office.

Dr. Davis appointed Jesse Haller, Ridgely Thrapp and Joe Norris as a committee to handle the gas problem and determine what should be done by the city to oppose the increase.

(By International News Service)
 ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 2.—That the call of one's native land is stronger than any fear of punishment has again been demonstrated.

Recently a letter came from far-off Samoa, supposedly written by Will Meyers, principal in one of Georgia's most sensational murder cases, who has eluded the police of the world for twenty-seven years.

After a two months' journey he was finally delivered into the hands of the detective who in 1895 unearthed the evidence that resulted in the arrest of Meyers and his subsequent conviction and sentence to the gallows for shooting to death Forrest Crowley, of Roswell, Georgia.

Meyers was sentenced twice to hang, but escaped from jail before the day of his execution arrived. After roaming the earth for nearly three decades, the fugitive says, he is beaten in his game with the law and intimates the call of home has driven from his mind fear of the hangman's noose. He declares frankly he wants to come home.

The sight of a four-months-old Atlanta newspaper prompted him to write Edward Cason, Sr., retired Atlanta detective and father of Detective Edward Cason, Jr., of the city force. Meyers, reading of an arrest made by the younger Cason, of whose existence he did not seem to know, evidently believed that the elder Cason is still on the force and expresses surprise that he is still in service.

The crime for which Meyers was sentenced to death was committed when he was nineteen years old and is unparalleled so far as cases of premeditated murder are concerned, veteran police officers say.

Meyers frankly admits in his letter that he is "homesick" and expresses a desire to return to the state of his birth.

Belasco, the Palmist, remains until Monday evening. Consult him now.

British to Mount New-Found Super-Mammoth

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Funds to "mount" the newly-found British "super-mammoth" are being sought by the British Museum.

This monster, unearthed recently near Chatham is forty feet long and when mounted will stand fifteen feet high. Experts were six months disinterring it from its bed of clay and it was recovered complete, except for the skull, which, being soft and spongy, had perished under the weight of clay.

Dr. Andrews, one of the greatest living authorities on bones in the paleontological field, will be in charge of the operations and he estimates that to set the monster up accurately and completely will be the work of six to eight months.

Think Somnambulist Killed Himself with Pistol While Asleep

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 2.—Dead by his own hand, but neither by accident nor thru wilful intent to end his own life.

This, in substance, is the consensus of opinion here regarding the death of J. V. Osburn, of Birmingham, who was found dead in his bed with a bullet wound thru his head.

Evidence obtained from relatives of the dead man at the inquest showed that Osburn for years had been a somnambulist, and had been known to commit unusual acts while under the spell of this. It was also brot out that there was no known reason why Osburn should have ended his life. He was engaged in a successful business, was in excellent health, and, so far as can be learned, there was no unrequited love affair in his life. Further, when last seen by relatives, a few hours before his death, he was in his usual good spirits.

With these facts before them, it is considered highly probable by the coroner and by relatives of Osburn that some time during the night, while under the somnambulist spell, he secured a revolver which he kept near at hand, and unconsciously fired the shot which ended his life, a morally guiltless suicide.
